PARKHURST VEXED.

He Doesn't Like Supt. Byrnes' "Pompous Dignity."

Says His Examination Was Not Sufficiently Searching.

STRONG LIKES BYRNES.

He May Not Therefore Accept His Resignation.

Byrnes Explains His Testimony Given on Saturday.

New York, Dec. 31.—Police Superintendent Byrnes' appearance before the Lexow committee, his offer to Mayor-elect Strong to resign and the accompanying tender of his services in reorganizing the police force, are variously received.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst has intimated that the inquisition, when Byrnes was upon the stand, was not made sufficiently searching for practical purposes. Parkhurst insists that Byrnes is responsible for most of the corruption exposed by the senate committee and he is malignant over the police chief's "pompous vanity" and "self-glottification" as he termed it.

Mayor-elect Strong is said to hold Byrnes in high estimation and would be inclined to urge the withdrawal of the superintendent's resignation were it not for his reluctance to antagonize the Parkhurst society. It is known that Messrs. Laroque, Smith, Taylor and the good government element of the committee of seventy entertain a cordial dislike for the superintendent.

A statement by the executive committee of the Society for the Prevention of Vice is promulgated today. This committee, which consists of Dr. Parkhurst, Frank Moss, assistant to Committee Chairman I. G. and Mr. Keim, held a consultation this afternoon. "I think," Mr. Moss said just before this consultation, "that I will put Mayor Strong in something of a hole. The action of this man, who spent several hours on the witness stand, was to narrate with the most absurd self-conceit his deeds of valor, saying naught but bad for the officials of the department."

Mr. Moss said that Superintendent Byrnes' allegation that he had frequently assisted the Lexow committee in apprehending delinquent witnesses and other ways placed himself at the service of the senators was news to Mr. Goff and him. "At the time of Capt. Devere's trial and freedom," Mr. Moss said, "I was something of a hole. The action of this man, who spent several hours on the witness stand, was to narrate with the most absurd self-conceit his deeds of valor, saying naught but bad for the officials of the department."

"In my examination before the Lexow committee on Saturday, when I referred to the police commissioners interfering with me, I said I did not intend to include the members of the board since the latter have become commissioners, they have done everything to assist me and have made it possible for me to take some actions which I had hitherto been unable to take."

General Kerwin, the newest member of the police commissioners and a Republican, said today that the board had not hampered Superintendent Byrnes during the latter's administration. "I am a member," Commissioner Kerwin also said that he had no knowledge of the superintendent's application for retirement, and that the recommendation of the Lexow committee for the retirement of Capt. Creedon could not in the least affect his opinion in the matter.

FAIR AND WARM.

Mr. Jennings Says It Will Continue to Be Good Weather.

Mr. Jennings, who knows about the weather, says today that the indications as reported this morning show that it will be a little warmer this evening than it was last evening and a little cooler tomorrow evening than it will be this evening.

It is generally fair everywhere and not so very cold. The zero line runs north and south today along the east side of the Rocky Mountains and the mercury is hovering in the region of forty-two in Topeka.

HORSES HAVE DIPHTHERIA.

Over One Hundred Cases of It at Carille, Illinois.

CARILLE, Ill., Dec. 31.—The diphtheria epidemic has assumed alarming proportions six miles west of here among farm horses. He was badly bruised but no bones were broken. The train was delayed two hours by the accident. The engine was brought in Sunday and one side of it was a wreck.

William and Hohentohle Confer. BERLIN, Dec. 31.—Emperor William had a long interview with Prince Hohentohle at the chancellery this afternoon. It is said Hohentohle may retire in favor of Count zu Eulenberg.

SATOLLI ONLY A MEDIUM.

He is Not Responsible for the Order Regarding Secret Societies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Owing to misapprehensions caused by the publication of a statement that the decree concerning secret societies was not final and was to be submitted to bishops in order to secure from them their opinions thereon, Monsignor Satolli, author of the Associated Press, made the following brief statement of facts to set at rest misapprehensions and possible misrepresentation:

"The archbishops of the United States have taken counsel with respect to three societies, namely: The Odd Fellows, the Sons of Temperance and the Knights of Pythias. The archbishops decided that the whole question should be submitted to the apostolic see. In a communication from his Eminence Cardinal Bozaco to Mons. Satolli, the action of the general congregation of cardinals, to whom his holiness submitted the question is made known. The congregation, after considering carefully the matter, made a decree. This decree his holiness fully confirmed, and gave it complete effect.

"The decree is therefore transmitted to all archbishops, bishops and other ordinaries of the United States, to be, by them, carried into effect. Mons. Satolli has acted merely as a medium of transmission. But in view of contradictory and confusing reports emanating from various parts of the country the facts are thus briefly stated."

A CARD FROM MR. MATSON.

Some Slight Corrections and a Section of a Letter From Mr. Matson.

To the Editor of the ST. JOHNS JOURNAL.

The interview, a report of which was published in the JOURNAL on Friday last, was had under exceedingly embarrassing circumstances, being repeatedly broken in upon. Please say that I am very sorry to have been understood to have said "sixty-seven" instead of "sixty-nine," "supreme court" instead of "senior court," that I was "not greatly surprised" that "I did not desire to see Mrs. Matson's remains," and to have used the term "contrary," as applied to her—a term I am not likely to use in such connection, since it does not express just what I meant to say, and conveys no hint of the theory (my own) which may serve to account for some things otherwise to me unaccountable.

And, now, if you will publish this from one of her two last letters to me, you will oblige one in the midst of great grinding trouble.

AMANDA MATSON.

"And now, my dear husband, I will say, that during the more than a year over a quarter of a century since I first met you I have had reason to have the utmost confidence in your chastity and clean character, and that confidence still remains. I am very anxious to have you come home, now, that your business affairs there can be satisfactorily adjusted so as to leave them in good shape. No disparaging reports have taken root here since your absence. As over your wife, "ALMIRA D. MATSON."

New York, Dec. 31.—President Jas. G. Martin of the police board, announced today that he would, within a few days, send his letter of resignation to Mayor Strong. Mr. Martin said now that the Lexow committee is through with its work, and as he felt that he was exonerated, he would resign.

He added that he hoped Mayor Strong would accept his resignation immediately.

POPS FOR INGALLS.

A Curious Outcome of the Senatorial Fight Indicated by Judge Nicholson.

Judge M. B. Nicholson of Council Grove, the well known Populist leader is said to be working up a scheme to elect Ingalls senator. According to the Holton Recorder the judge wrote a letter to a Holton friend in which he said if enough Republicans can be found who will vote for Ingalls for senator every Populist vote in the senate and house will be thrown to him, thus securing his election.

UNIONS AND DRINK.

Central Labor Union of New York Discusses Liquor.

One Delegate Says it Keeps Labor Unions Poor.

MONEY SQUANDERED.

Saloons Are What Keep Their Treasuries Depleted.

Resolution to Meet in a Temperance Hall Defeated.

New York, Dec. 31.—The question of labor organizations meeting in halls where non-union beer is sold came up again before a meeting of the Central Labor union. After some discussion Delegate Perrine, of the Iron Workers' union, offered a resolution compelling all unions connected with the Central Labor union to find meeting places within three months where no intoxicating liquors are sold.

"I listened to David Holmes of England, a few weeks ago," said Mr. Perrine, "and I took to heart what he said about the necessity for our unions having full treasuries. I believe the reason that labor organizations in this country are poor is because their members spend their money in saloons."

"I don't believe the Central Labor union has power to adopt such a resolution," said Secretary John S. Henry, "and it would not be just to the brewers who are members of the union."

"Whether or not, we have the power," replied Perrine, "we must take some stand on the subject. Let us vote on the constitution, for I tell you that I know that the rank and file of our unions are being ruled by drink."

Delegate James C. Edwards seconded the resolution, and after a long debate it was put to a vote and defeated by a small majority. Several delegations, however, announced their intention of urging their unions to carry out the resolution and the announcement was made that the painter's union had secured a temperance hall to meet in.

ASKS FOR A RECEIVER.

Central Trust Company Wants One for the St. Joseph & Grand Island.

OMAHA, Dec. 31.—The Central Trust company has filed an application in the federal court asking for the appointment of a separate receiver for the St. Joseph & Grand Island railroad. In May, 1890, the Grand Island road issued bonds to the amount of $7,000,000, secured by a conveyance to the Central Trust company of all its property and franchises.

One of the stipulations of the mortgage was that in case of default was made in the payment of any interest on any of the bonds issued, it would be lawful for the trust company to foreclose the equity of redemption and to sell or dispose of the property. The Central Trust Co. says the Grand Island road made default in the payment on May 1, 1894, of interest due on that day. This was followed by another default of payment in November, 1894.

The Grand Island road has been for some years in the possession of the Pacific railway system and has been operated as a part of the Union Pacific system.

JOHN CARTER'S HOTEL.

The Matteson House Sold at Sheriff's Sale—A Legal Fight.

John Carter is in the district court today by his attorney, Vance & Campbell, making a fight over the transfer of the Matteson hotel property on Fourth and Quincy streets, which was sold a week ago today at sheriff's sale.

Carter does not contest the sale, but wants the purchaser, Geo. M. Noble, given a certificate instead of a deed. Carter claims this under the provisions of the law of 1893. If Carter carries his point it will give him eighteen months more time.

Arrested for Forgery.

William Frazier, a new colored porter at Frank Long's restaurant, was arrested this morning for forgery. Some days ago he called at the postoffice for letters for William Frazier. One addressed to William Frey, sr., was, by mistake, given him. It contained a money order for $20. Frazier cashed the money order by signing "William Frey, sr." to it and bought an overcoat. His crime was easily detected and he was arrested today.

AFRAID OF HER HORSE.

Lizzie Evans Has Ridden Gentle Horses in "In Old Kentucky."

Lizzie Evans, the well-known actress, who is to appear as Madge Briarly in "In Old Kentucky," at the Grand this evening, is a cousin of Everett J. Dallas, of the firm of Rossington, Smith & Dallas, lawyers. She is being entertained by him at his home on this afternoon. Their mothers were sisters.

Miss Evans is a charming and vivacious little blond. She has been on the stage since 1879 and has never played a small part in her life. Three years after her advent on the stage she became a star and has been starred most of the time since.

"This is the first part I was ever afraid of," she said today. "There are so many things in it that make me nervous. I am afraid of the horse I ride in the race for one thing. I have recently been transferred from the eastern company where I played a large amount of that swinging and exciting part. I really enjoyed the race there, but this animal gets excited and shows a disposition to 'act up' sometimes. Since Laura Burt was thrown from her horse in the same part in Brooklyn some time ago she has not ridden in the race at all. The 'Pekanyany' band," which she is riding the scene."

Miss Evans has a scene in which she has to catch a rope and swing herself over a mountain chasm. "I always dread that part of the performance," she said. "At a matinee in Kansas City, Sunday, I fell from the rope and tore my hand dreadfully. I tried it again at night and fell again. Friday and Saturday nights one of the other ladies had to do for me but I shall try it again tonight."

"I have had to work hard for this part. It is so different from any I ever played. I practiced a long time on that swinging scene and took a large number of lessons in riding astride. I call the swinging scene my 'swing for bread'."

Miss Evans missed by two days the contract for the part Gladys Wallis plays with the Patti Ross company.

"Pekanyany band," which consists of ten colored boys who play pretty well, gave a parade on Kansas avenue this morning, and had a crowd following them.

Miss Evans says all the scenery with the piece will be used tonight.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD.

The Situation in Pennsylvania Presents an Encouraging Outlook.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 31.—A review of the industrial situation shows an encouraging outlook in this section for the coming year. There is a heavy increase in the number of iron, steel and tin mills in operation. Where one year ago less than one-half the window glass factories were running, three-fourths are in operation now. With flat glass factories this is also true. The hopeful feature of the situation is the steady increase in the demand for manufactured products.

With the exception of their Beaver Falls mill, all the Carnegie mills are now running in full or double turn. The big window glass factories at Jeannette and New Kensington are in full operation day and night. A revival of railroad and railroad equipment building is looked for for the first of the year. In the Connellsville region 13,810 coke ovens are in operation and the prospect is hopeful for a busy year.

DROPS KANSAS CENTRAL.

It Is to Be Sold at Sheriff's Sale at Once.

Charles Blood Smith returned today from St. Paul, where he secured an order appointing receivers for the Kansas Central railroad, which extends from Leavenworth to Concordia. The order appointing receivers and the suit to foreclose the first mortgage on the road were filed in the United States circuit court here today.

The Kansas Central is not now paying operating expenses. It was a Kansas Central company the road has been operated by the Union Pacific company.

The effort is now being made to lop off the line from the main branch, and the petition asks for a "speedy sale" which is unusual in railroad foreclosure cases. It was agreed that the deficit in the operating expenses already incurred and any which shall arise in the future, shall be a prior lien on the road to that of the bondholders.

A suit was also filed to foreclose mortgages on the St. Joseph & Grand Island railroad. The suit against the Kansas Central is brought by the New York Security company of New York to foreclose the first mortgage bonds of $1,346,000 against the road and accrued interest, making the amount about $2,000,000. The suit against the Grand Island is brought by the Central Trust company of New York to foreclose the first mortgage bonds amounting to $7,000,000.

The order of Judge Sanborn for the appointment of receivers named the receivers of the main line of the Union Pacific receivers of the Kansas Central.

The suit against the Grand Island is also to get rid of this branch.

The Grand Island operates in the northern tier of counties as far west as Marysville. The Kansas Central starts at Leavenworth and runs through the counties of Jackson and Pottawatomie, terminating at Concordia.

Fireless Councils.

Woman's present addiction to "resolving" and to the platform consideration of abstract questions of state, society and morality rather forces the quiet reflection that the home fireside is one of the best places on earth for woman to hold her councils. There she can mold the minds and form the characters of the men who will make the laws and lead the reforms in the next generation, and her fireside councils can accomplish a million fold more good for the state and for humanity than resums of resolutions or platonic periods of peripatetic philanthropies. —Minneapolis Times.

The ST. JOHNS JOURNAL's Want and Miscellaneous columns reach each working day in the week more than twice as many Topeka people as can be reached through any other paper. This is a fact.

TRADERS HAVE FUN.

Annual New Year's Revel of the Chicago Board.

When the Market Closed the Fun Commenced.

OPENED IT WITH YELLS.

The Regular Flour Throwing Scene is Enacted.

Everyone Comes Out of the War Looking Like a Tramp.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—The annual New Year's revel on the board of trade was observed today with unusual enthusiasm. The market was neglected during the last hour and at the tap of the bell at noon every trader on the floor was long on sacks of flour and short on dignity. The galleries were crowded with people who had come to see the fun and the performance was fully up to expectations.

When the market closed the ball opened. The festivities began with a series of blood curdling yells, and a vivid imitation of the ghost dance. A short fat trader with a high silk hat, who was leading the vocal exercises was suddenly cut short in his musical flights by the swift descent of a burning sack of flour.

At this signal every man on the floor entered unceremoniously in the attempt to pound every other man with a flour sack. Hats were battered and hurled towards the ceiling; coats were torn and were upset and for half an hour a merry war was waged in the midst of flying flour.

When the stock of flour was exhausted the sample tables were robbed of barley, oats and corn and the air was full of flying missiles until exhaustion ended the fun. When it was over the pit looked as though it had been struck by a blizzard and the traders resembled a choice collection of tramps.

SHERRY WILL BE HIGHER.

The Vintage of 1894 Shows a Decrease in Quantity.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Sherry wine will be higher in price according to United States Consul Adolph Caddis. He reports to the state department that owing to a dry spring, to phylloxera and to lack of ready money by the grape growers, the vintage of 1894 shows a marked decrease in quantity even as compared with last year, which was below the average, the decrease being estimated at one-third last year's production.

On the other hand the quality of the new wine is very superior and much above the average and sales have been made at 30 per cent, which is much above the average price of recent years.

TO SELL SILVER JOINTLY.

Producers and Smelters Will Meet and Decide on Its Practicability.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—It was learned from a reliable source today that there is no truth in the report that a meeting of silver producers and smelters was to be held in this city early in January.

The recently appointed committee of three, Messrs. Daniel Guggenheim of the Guggenheim smelting company, Guy C. Barton of the Omaha & Grant smelting company, and A. E. Meyer of the Kansas City Consolidated smelting company, will meet here before the 12th of January and make a report and recommendation on the practicability and advisability of selling silver jointly.

London Given Five Years.

John S. Longdon, the ex-preacher, convicted of misleading 15-year-old Ida Brown, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Judge Hazen at 3 p.m. today. Judge Hazen denounced Longdon for his conduct, but gave him the minimum for the offence. The motions for a new trial were granted in a lengthy decision.

Peter the Great.

A St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that an Englishman who was passing lately through a small village in Russia, entered a peasant's cottage to ask for a cup of tea. Hanging on the wall, framed in a ten-tray, the edges of which were turned over the canvas, he noticed a portrait in oil of Peter the Great. Having bought it for half-a-crown, he showed it in St. Petersburg to the curators of the Hermitage gallery who, after consulting their catalogues, identified it pretty surely with the picture at Versailles; but considered that if they were by the same hand, or copied one from the other, the copy was at Versailles and the original was this.

The portrait, if not the finest of any existing is inferior to none, and will probably be purchased eventually by the imperial family.

F. B. Dawes' Messenger.

Attorney General Albert F. B. Dawes today announced the appointment of A. E. Russell of Clay Center to be stenographer in his office. Mr. Russell is Mr. Dawes' stenographer at Clay Center.

BURIED IN THE RUINS.

Still Hunting for the Missing in the Del Rio.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 31.—Four ragged walls and a mass of shuddering ruins mark the site of the Delavan house today. Two hundred and fifty of its guests, thankful that they escaped though only with the clothes on their backs, are quartered at the other hotels. The list of casualties is as follows:

The Dead.

Mrs. H. S. Foxes, formerly of Dayton, Ohio.

The Injured.

Henry F. Foxes, Rochester, injured internally and face and hands burned; will recover. Mrs. B. J. Heidman, Brooklyn, face cut and internally injured; will recover. Ben F. Heidman, Brooklyn, ankle injured. Edward Walsh, face badly burned. Edward Murphy, head burned. E. A. Manchester, Auburn, hands and arms badly burned. E. W. Arnold, Rochester, bruised by jumping from window. D. P. Brockway, New York, right arm badly cut and will recover. James Hennessey, fireman of steamer No. 4, struck on the head by a brick when one of the walls fell about midnight.

The police are unable to account for eight persons, two maids and six guests who were in the Delavan house before the fire. They say that while it is possible that these persons may now be in some hotel, it is quite probable that their bodies are hidden in the ruins.

That a number of corpses lie beneath the ruins seems most probable. Chief Quereza, who was on the top floor when the cry of fire was given, tells a horrible tale of what he saw:

"I was in my room," said he, "when some one yelled 'Fire!' The hall was filled with smoke and the stairs were blocked with flames. I turned to the other way. On the floor of the corridor lay three persons. Whether they were men or women I could not say. They were shrieking for help."

"I could not stop to help them. The flames were leaping along the corridor and I was losing my senses from the awful smoke that rendered life in the place almost impossible. I saw a man, a woman and they grabbed my legs. It was by main force that I pulled myself away and found a window from which I lowered myself five stories by means of a rope. I do not know what became of the unfortunate beings. I do not think they were saved."

The following is a correct list of the missing:

Record Telephon, fireman in the kitchen; Bridget Fitzgibbon, employed in the kitchen; Augusta Sturens, vegetable cook; Amelia Tomagni, sister of the head chef; Thomas Conner, ear sweep; Samuel Conner, brother of Mary Fitzgibbon, chambermaid; Kate Crowley, employed in kitchen; Penelope Bonlett, fireman in kitchen.

Storekeeper Brook and chef Tomagni furnished the Associated Press man with the list of names; and said, there could be no doubt that all of the missing were very least most of them, met their doom in the fire. The chef, whose sister is among the missing, was nearly heart-broken.

SEN. ALLISON'S VIEWS.

Democrats Couldn't Have Done Worse If They Had Tried.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Sen. Allison of Iowa, arrived here today on his way to Washington. The senator said that, if anybody had been wishing the Democrats had luck it could hardly have been hoped that they would tangle up finance affairs worse than they have.

"What about the probability of another bond issue?" was asked.

"If imports don't show a material improvement," replied the senator, "it will be necessary to issue more bonds before long to meet the government expenses."
